ART AND FANCY WORK. "NURSERY RHYMES," "HOME DYING."

Mr. Thackeray brought from England a letter of introduction to an important gentleman of Boston. By him he was most hospitably entertained and passed from dinner party to dinner party. But Thackeray's interest in the capital of New England did not end with Thackeray's dinner parties. He had heard something of the eminent men of the town and at that moment happened to be particularly interested in Thackeray. He was sitting at the table and heard that the eminent man of the town and at that moment happened to be particularly interested in Thackeray. ### THE FIRST THANKSGIVING DINNER

Indian Chiefs Were Hospitably Entertained by Pilgrim Fathers.

The first Thanksgiving was appointed by Governor Bradford at Plymouth, Massachusetts, in 1621, the year following the landing of the Pilgrims, in order that the Colonists in a more special way could rejoice together at having all things in good and plenty, writes Clifford Howard in the November Ladies' Home Journal. In preparation for the feast "gunners were sent into the woods for wild turkeys, which were abundant, and great numbers; kitchen were made ready for preparing the feast, especially the large one in Dame Brewster's house, which was under the immediate direction and charge of Priscilla Mullins, who afterwards became the wife of John Alden, while a messenger was dispatched to invite Massasoit, the chief of the friendly tribe, to attend the celebration.

"Early on the morning of the appointed Thursday—the first of November—Massasoit and ninety of his warriors arrived on the banks of the village, and with wild yells announced their readiness to enjoy the hospitality of their white brethren. The little settlement, which numbered about seven dwellings and four public buildings, was soon filled with men and women and children who gave the Indians a hearty welcome as they filed into the large square in front of the Governor's house. Soon the roll of drum announced the hour of prayer, for no day was begun without this religious service. Then followed a holiday of feasting and recreation, which continued not only that day but during the two succeeding days. The usual routine of daily was suspended, the children ran wild in the morning, the young men indulged in athletic sports and games in friendly rivalry with the Indians; the little American army of fifty men, under the leadership of Miles Standish, went through the drill and manual of arms, to the great delight and astonishment of the natives, while the women busied themselves in the careful preparation of the feast, the meats, which were eaten in the open air."
